From the reference year 2025 onwards, a small controlled random uncertainty is introduced in all reported data. The uncertainty has been added to protect individuals so that no one risks being exposed in the statistics. As a result, the reported totals are not always equal to the sum of their reported components.

If reported statistical values are added together to create a new total, the uncertainty is also added. There is therefore a risk that the new total contains greater uncertainty than that which – under the method – would have been added to a single value.

The method used for disclosure control is called Cell Key Method (CKM). You can read more about the method here: Protection methods for disclosure control and here: Development of disclosure protection.

Marriages and divorces are based on all registered residents in Sweden that during the year were married or divorced.

If the persons were registered in different regions of Sweden in connection with marriage or divorce, the event has been transferred to the eldest person's region. The same applies if only one of the couple was registered as living in Sweden.

In cases where the partner is not registered in Sweden and the information on sex is missing, it has been assumed that it is a couple with two sexes.

The statistics are based on the legal sex of the persons.
